our hotel

Not all that long ago, Providence was considered little more than a Boston suburb. Now, this city has truly come of age, celebrating with a revitalized waterfront along the Providence River and a restored corridor of Revolutionary-era buildings. Providence is home to Brown University, Providence College, Johnson & Wales University and one of the most notable art and design schools in the country, the Rhode Island School of Design; all located just minutes from the historic downtown address of the Hampton Inn & Suites® Providence .

where to go and what to do

From our location in the historic financial district of downtown Providence, walk one short block to the redeveloped waterfront that features a dynamic new art installation called Waterfire, a series of one hundred torches lit along the Providence River. Stroll down Atwells Avenue, locally known as the city's Italian district, and duck into a pizza parlor for authentic hand-tossed pie. A few steps further down the avenue and you're sure to find a cup of espresso and a rich tiramisu.
