2585 Cobbs Hill Place, Prattville, Alabama, USA 36066
Tel: 1-334-285-6767, Fax: 1-334-285-0932

our hotel

From the very beginning, Prattville has been a city dedicated to progress while maintaining tradition. In 1833, Daniel Pratt gave name to the area and began building his cotton gins, quickly becoming the world's foremost producer and earning the city the nickname "Birthplace of Industry in Alabama." Though ranked as one of the fastest growing areas in Alabama, Prattville maintains true Southern hospitality. Guests at the Hampton Inn® Prattville hotel are continually astounded by the friendliness of our residents, as well as our area's natural beauty.

directions to our hotel

From Montgomery Airport take I-65 North to Birmingham. Take Exit #179 onto Cobb Ford Road. The hotel is located on west side of freeway. From Birmingham or Mobile take I-65 to Exit 179 Cobb Ford Road. The hotel is located on the west side of the freeway.

where to go and what to do

You'll enjoy exploring all the history of the Prattville area at places such as: Daniel Pratt's Cotton Gin, the historic Jefferson Davis home, antebellum mansions, and Old Alabama Town. In addition to the activities near our Prattville hotel, you'll find a wealth of entertainment options just minutes away in Montgomery. Are you a fan of the Bard? Then you'll want to plan on attending the Alabama Shakespeare Festival, which draws folks from all over the country. The Montgomery Zoo is an animal lover's retreat, and the Betsy Ann Riverboat takes you up and down the Alabama River.
