our hotel

When you stay at our hotel in Surprise, you're sure to have a good time. The desert city of Surprise was founded in 1937 by real estate developer and state legislator Homer C. Ludden (he named it after his hometown of Surprise, Nebraska). Today it's gone from a sleepy little desert outpost to one of Arizona's fastest growing cities. Surrounded by one of Arizona's largest mountain preserves, and situated in the gorgeous Saguaro-dotted Sonoran desert on the northwestern edge of the expanding Valley of the Sun, Surprise has lots of surprises in store for you.
