where to go and what to do

Talk about history. Green Bay's first inhabitants roamed the area 10,000 years ago. By the 1600s, Native Americans had formed large populations of Winnebago, Chippewa and Menominee Indians. Claimed for France in 1634, the town is considered the oldest settlement in the Midwest. But enough history. Today, the area surrounding our hotel in Green Bay is known for its football and cheese, which are both world famous. It's a fantastic town for the arts as well. From its two symphony orchestras to its three college campuses, there's always something going on in town. If you're a fan of the great outdoors, you'll adore our area.
