where to go and what to do

The area around the Hampton Inn & Suites® hotel in Williamsburg-Historic Area, VA is an American treasure. Williamsburg itself is a thoughtful restoration of the former capital of Virginia. It's the state's number-one tourist attraction. You'll see why when you walk through the 18th-century streets. The restoration project began in 1926 and was financed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Today, the scope of Williamsburg is staggering: You'll find 88 original 18th-century and early 19th-century homes and buildings. Another 500 buildings have been carefully reconstructed on their original sites.
